

THE
THESE IS LOVE

THE GREATEST OF THESE IS LOVE

Three things will last forever—faith, hope, and love—and the greatest of these is love, 1 Corinthians 13:13, NLT.

The first and greatest commandment is to love our God with all of our heart, mind, spirit, and strength, Luke 10:27. The second is like it in that we must love our neighbor as we love ourselves.

John 13:14-15, Saints are to love each other and in doing so, the world will know we are truly Jesus' disciples.

Matthew 25:31-46 has it that some will enter heaven and others the torment of hell. What's the defining quality that divides the two? Saints who put love into action enter heaven. Those who don't enter hell.

Ephesians 5 states we are to walk in love, light, and wisdom. We are to live in love, we are to practice love. We are to seek opportunities to love, Galatians 6:10.

This love concept is greater than faith (and you need faith to go to heaven). It's greater than hope (and we're saved in hope, Romans 8:24). The Father loves with a love too immense for us to fully grasp, Ephesians 3:16-21. Maybe we ought to really get into it!
